

Contents

Contents	iv
1 Introduction and Some Terminology	1
1.1 Notes on the status of this chapter	1
1.2 Introduction	2
1.3 The Terminology of Conspiracy Theories	3
1.4 Philosophical pre-amble	12
1.5 Karl Popper - The conspiracy theory of society	12
1.6 Charles Pigden - conspiracy theory as a non-pejorative	15
1.7 Brian L. Keeley - conspiracy theories as prima facie irrational	20
1.8 Lee Basham - How open is our society?	27
1.9 Steve Clarke - conspiracy theories as (degenerating) Lakatosian Research Programmes	32
1.10 David Coady - The Official Theory as Influential	39
1.11 Neil Levy - The Official Theory as Epistemically Authoritative	43
1.12 Pete Mandik - A Return to Popper	45
1.13 Conclusion	47
2 Presenting My Definition of conspiracy theory	49
2.1 Notes on the status of this chapter	49
2.2 Introduction	50
2.3 My Definition	50
2.4 Some Axes of conspiracy theories	52
2.5 Coming Up...	61
3 The Conspiracy Theory as a type of Explanation	63
3.1 Notes on the status of this chapter	63
3.2 Introduction	64
3.3 Why are Conspiracy Theories like Historical Explanations?	64
3.4 Historical Explanations as Explanation Sketches	67
3.5 Historical Explanations as Interpretative Explanations	70

3.6	Causal Explanation	80
3.7	Conclusion	86
4	Contrasting Conspiracy with non-Conspiracy Theories	89
4.1	Notes on the status of this chapter	89
4.2	Introduction	90
4.3	The Role of Endorsement in Explanations	90
4.4	The Relationship between Epistemic Credentials and Institutional Status	92
4.5	Endorsement and Conspiracy theories	94
4.6	Conclusion	104
4.7	‘Public Trust Skepticism’ and the ‘Openness Objection’	107
5	The Transmission of Conspiracy Theories	113
5.1	Notes on the status of this chapter	113
5.2	Introduction	114
5.3	What is Testimony?	114
5.4	Reductionism vs. Non-Reductionism	121
5.5	Mixed Views	127
5.6	Reliabilism	130
5.7	The Assurance View	136
5.8	Introduction	139
5.9	Rumours as Pathological Testimony	140
5.10	Official-ness	147
6	The Inference to Conspiracy	151
6.1	Notes on the status of this chapter	151
6.2	Introduction	152
6.3	Inference to the Best Explanation	153
6.4	Petty Psychologies Update	156
6.5	Conspiracies Then, Now and Tomorrow: How Do Past Instances Affect the Likelihood of Similar Events Now?	156
6.6	The Question - Preamble	157
6.7	Conspiracies Then, Conspiracies Now and Conspiracies Future	162
6.8	A New, Related Question	164
6.9	Why the term ‘Conspiracy Theory’ must apply to any attempted to explain the occurrence of an event by reference to a Conspiracy	165
7	Conclusion	169
7.1	Notes on the status of this chapter	169
7.2	Very drafty	170
7.3	Conclusion	176

7.4 To close...	176
8 Appendix I	179
9 Appendix II	181
9.1 Who and what are the Conspirators in these things called conspiracy theories ? .	181
Bibliography	187